LIBERO

IUFRO's On-line Literature Database Has New Features to Offer

LIBERO in a nutshell

IUFRO's on-line reference library LIBERO includes extensive literature related to forest research that has been collected in the reference library of the IUFRO Secretariat and in the library of the Federal Office and Research Centre for Forests (BFW), and a new comprehensive link collection that enables the user to search for forestry related websites. The predominant languages of the titles are German and English but there is also a wide range of documents available in French and Spanish.

The LIBERO database enables the user to choose among three different catalogues (the IUFRO database, the BFW database and the URL database). The standard catalogue is the IUFRO database which contains mainly proceedings from IUFRO meetings and IUFRO publications such as World Series and Occasional Papers. The BFW database includes predominantly German publications since 1981, and all publications of BFW members since 1874. The new URL database contains a comprehensive link collection that includes up to 500 links.

How to access LIBERO

LIBERO can be accessed directly and for free from the IUFRO website by clicking at "IUFRO Reference Library" under "On-line Services".

Visit: <http://iufro.boku.ac.at/>

How to search

The search mask is very user-friendly and allows both a simple and, this is new, an advanced search in 5 languages (English, French, German, Italian, Spanish).

This new advanced search modus allows the user to combine up to 5 search terms. The terms can be searched in different indices such as title, subject, notes, series, author, corporate author and classifications. The obtained search results can then be easily downloaded or collected in a basket.

A novelty is also the increased user-friendliness which enables the user to see at one glance whether a specific publication type (article, series, book, CD) or Website connected with a publication is available by means of graphical illustrations and symbols (a red book, for instance, stands for a book, a capital W indicates that a Website exists). Another asset of LIBERO is the possibility to refine the obtained search results. Moreover, a new link has been created which leads you directly from the name of the author or your search result to other publications by the same author.

LIBERO also offers a comprehensive list of new publications which can be accessed by clicking on "New Items List".

Planning

There are a number of further improvements planned to increase the user-friendliness of LIBERO. Several features such as the journal search will be further enhanced. In the future, the users will also be able to choose Spanish, French and Italian in addition to German and English as menu languages.

Library and Database Administrator

The screenshot shows the LIBERO search interface in a web browser. The page title is "Literature Databases of International Union of Forest Research Organizations (IUFRO) & Federal Office & Research Centre for Forests (BFW) Vienna, Austria". The interface includes a sidebar with navigation links such as "Back", "Simple Search", "Advanced Search", "Journal Search", "Refine Search Results", "New Items List", "Help", "German", "English", "Select Catalogue", "Preferences", "Map", "Opening Hours", and "About". The main search area has a "Search Term/s" input field, an "Index" dropdown menu set to "Anyword", and an "Enable Phrase Searching" checkbox. At the bottom of the search area are three buttons: "SEARCH", "BROWSE INDEX", and "Clear Screen".

IUFRO Special Programme for Developing Countries - The Year 2002 -

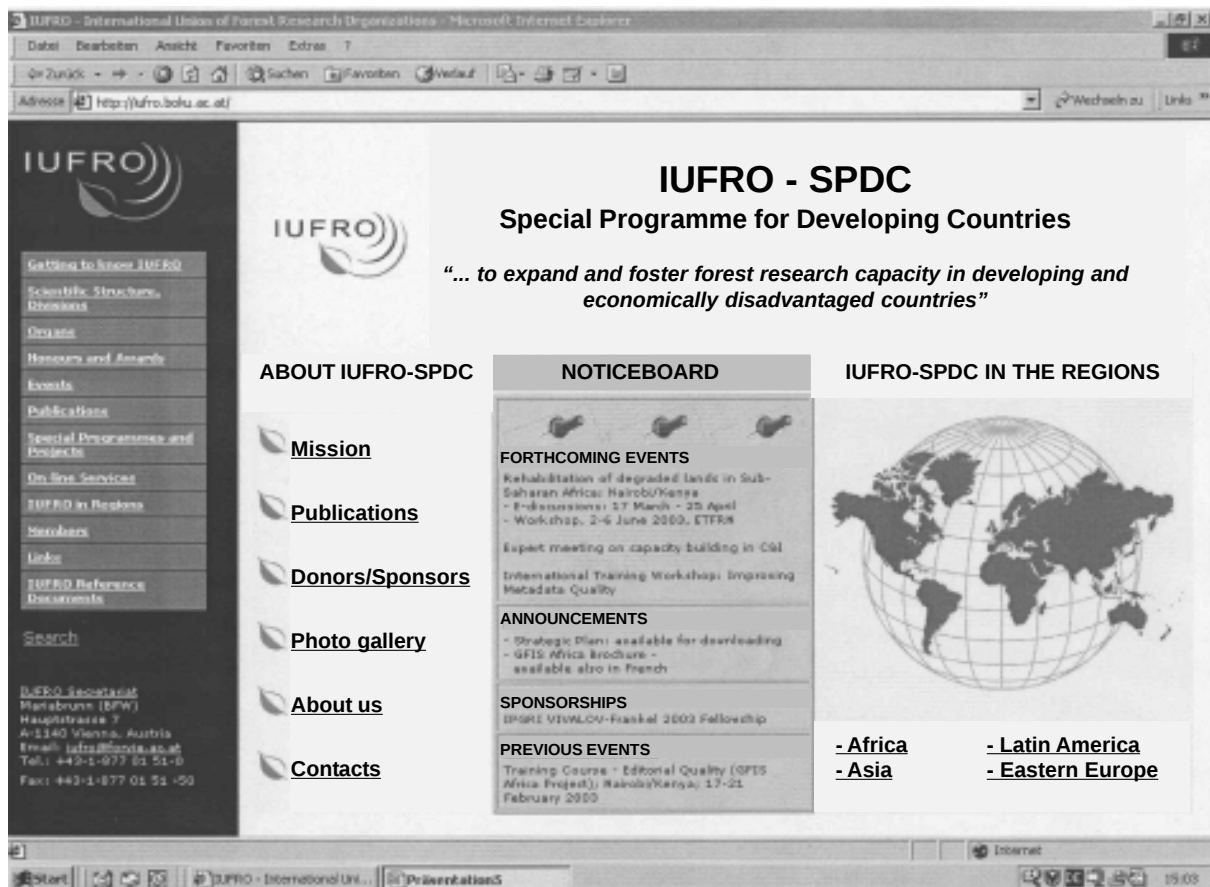

Introduction

With the completion of IUFRO-SPDC's Strategy Plan 2002 – 2005 the activities in 2002 focused on developing new training and research networking initiatives and the implementation of ongoing projects. In order to provide our clients and others interested in forest research capacity building in developing countries with a better insight into our planned and ongoing activities, the IUFRO-SPDC website has been re-designed. Three new sections, namely "About IUFRO-SPDC", "Noticeboard" and "IUFRO-SPDC in the Regions" have been introduced on the main site (www.iufro.boku.ac.at/spdc) and allow the visitor to rapidly access the desired information.

valuable contributions during 2002. Additional support could be secured from the USDA Forest Service and GTZ (Germany). IUFRO-SPDC gratefully acknowledges the financial and in-kind contributions provided by these organisations.

Noticeboard

The noticeboard serves visitors to obtain the latest news on forthcoming events, announcements and sponsorship opportunities. A section on previous events includes also links to publications, reports and proceedings of completed workshops and training courses. For the purpose of developing new training areas, during 2002 IUFRO-SPDC contributed to the following two workshops:

About IUFRO-SPDC

This section provides visitors with the basic information on IUFRO-SPDC including mission, publications, donors/sponsors, photo gallery, staff members and contact details. Sponsors are listed and presented with their logos on a separate site. Donors including BMZ (Germany), DANIDA (Denmark), ODA Japan, European Commission, Austrian Federal Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry, Environment and Water Management continued their

"Public Relation in Forest Science"

This training module aims at forest research managers and decision makers of forest research organisations providing guidance on public relations activities to promote forest science within society. In a workshop organised by the IUFRO Task Force on this subject (Switzerland, May 2002) the scope of training and possible content of future courses were discussed. It was also decided to develop a handbook on PR for use as training material.

"Managing with scarce resources"

The development of this training module is a reaction to concerns over the survival of many national forest research organisations vis-à-vis changing socio-economic and political framework conditions. A workshop was held in Sri Lanka in December 2002 in cooperation with the Forestry Research Support Programme for Asia and Pacific (FORSPA/FAO) for the purpose of synthesising the lessons learnt from past experiences, and to draw out proven, workable strategies for managing research with scarce resources. More workshops of this type are planned to stimulate the discussions among research managers and promote inter-regional joint learning.

A third training theme under preparation deals with criteria and indicators for sustainable forest management and forest certification in Latin America. This training will assist scientists in Latin America to more effectively participate in stakeholder processes to develop C&I and certification schemes. Their contribution will enhance the application of scientific results in practical application, thus improving forest management. In order to develop an appropriate training module for Latin America, an expert meeting will be organized in early 2003.

IUFRO-SPDC in the regions

This section of the website intends to inform visitors about ongoing projects in the regions such as Africa, Asia/Pacific, Latin America/Caribbean and Eastern Europe.

Bio-technology assisted reforestation (BIO-REFOR)

The 11th International Workshop of BIO-REFOR was held at the Seoul National University in Korea in October 2002. More than 100 participants from 15 countries mostly from Asia attended the workshop and discussed a wide array of issues related to the workshop theme "Restoration for Sustainable Forest Ecosystems." Supported by the Government of Japan's Official Development Assistance BIO-REFOR is now an established network for information exchange and interaction among researchers. After more than 10 years of existence BIO-REFOR will continue its networking activities with increased focus on biodiversity.

GFIS Africa

This 3.5-year project funded by the European Commission aims at building components of the Global Forest Information Service (GFIS) in Africa. In the third year of its implementation the project made considerable progress in establishing 5 GFIS nodes in Africa, namely Gabon, Ghana, Kenya, Senegal and Zimbabwe. To date, the nodes are fully operational, permanently staffed, equipped with the necessary hard- and software and have mobilised considerable forest-related information resources, notably grey literature from the Sub-Saharan region. The GFIS Africa Project also contributed to the launching of GFIS at the 1st European Regional IUFRO Conference held in Copenhagen, Denmark in August 2002. Project activities during 2002 included four regional training courses for webmasters, GFIS content managers, librarians and data entry personnel, work on metadata quality and the mobilization of about 4.000 metadata records on grey literature. Overall, the GFIS Africa Project has – within the framework of FORNESSA (Forest Research Network of Sub-Saharan Africa) - contributed significantly to enhanced communication and cooperation between different forest research organizations in Africa. More detailed information on the project can be obtained at <http://www.iufro-gfis.net/gfisafri.html>.

Preparing and writing research proposals

During 2002, the training module on research proposal writing continued to be in high demand, particularly in Africa. With the production of the French version of the handbook the course material is now available for training in French speaking countries. IUFRO-SPDC supported four courses organised in 2002 by the International Foundation of Science, one each in Burkina Faso, Benin, Senegal and Mozambique. In total 160 copies of the English and French versions of the handbook were supplied to these courses. The handbook (English version) can be downloaded from the IUFRO-SPDC website (Publications).

Carpathian Mountain Project

The project on "Effects of air pollution on forest health and biodiversity in forests of the Carpathian Mountains" was concluded with a NATO Advanced Research Workshop held in Stara Lesna, Slovakia in May 2002. The proceedings of this workshop were published as NATO Science Series.

SilvaVoc Terminology Project

- The Year 2002 -

Introduction

The activities in 2002 aimed at improving the information provided at the SilvaVoc website and at increasing the usability of the SilvaTerm terminology database. In addition the SilvaVoc Terminology Project has been involved in the "2nd Expert Meeting on Harmonizing Forest-Related Definitions for Use of Various Stakeholders", which was held in Rome, Italy. In 2002 the SilvaVoc Project was also engaged in a multilingual glossary project on carbon cycling (funded by the OeNB, Austrian National Bank).

The search function of SilvaTerm allows three search options, thus the user can either carry out searches in one language, find equivalent terms in other languages, or search for specific subject fields. To carry out an online search in the database the user only has to enter the term and to specify the language in order to get a list of terms that match the search term.

In addition to the SilvaTerm database the SilvaVoc Project also offers the following services on its website:

The screenshot shows a web browser window displaying the SilvaTerm Database interface. The header includes the IUFRO logo and the title 'SilvaTerm Database'. Below the header are navigation links: 'Back to Searchform', 'Search help', 'Input Form', and 'SilvaVoc'. The main content area displays search results for the term 'tree-ring analysis'. It includes fields for 'English Term', 'Short Form', 'Synonym(s)', 'Definition', 'Cross Reference', 'Note', 'Source', 'Hyperlink', 'IUFRO Unit', and 'Subject Field'. Below these fields is a section titled 'Equivalent terms in other languages' with entries for Portuguese (pt), Italian (it), Spanish (sp), French (fr), Hungarian (hu), and German (de).

English Term:	tree-ring analysis
Short Form:
Synonym(s):	analysis of annual rings
Definition:	The examination of the distinctive layers of wood formed once a year, for the purpose of the determination of age or annual diameter increment.

- access to a multi-lingual glossary on Forest Genetic Resources (joint activity with FAO),

- access to international online bibliography of glossaries, dictionaries and other terminological publications,

- access to a comprehensive list of abbreviations and acronyms of general terms and important organizations in forestry,

- information about related projects and initiatives in forest terminology,

- explanation of IUFRO specific in-house terminology.

SilvaVoc website

<http://iufro.boku.ac.at/silvavoc>

The mission of the SilvaVoc Project is to ensure high quality in terminology work and to provide comprehensive services related to forest terminology. One of these services accessible from the SilvaVoc website is the SilvaTerm terminology database which gives access to the most frequently used forestry terms.

The SilvaTerm database contains about 5000 terms and their equivalents in up to eight languages (English, French, Spanish, German, Italian, Japanese, Hungarian, Portuguese and some terms in Swahili). The technical terms are presented together with a definition and additional explanations (such as short forms, synonyms, notes etc.) and with the respective IUFRO research unit which has approved the information provided.

Acknowledgements

The SilvaVoc Project gratefully acknowledges financial contributions from FAO and the OeNB (Austrian National Bank) and the support of the IUFRO Board which has enabled the Co-ordinator of the Project to carry out the work programme.
